

City of Perth

Development Approvals Building Permit - Certified

A certified Building Permit application must be accompanied by a Certificate of Design Compliance signed by a registered building surveyor when submitting an application to the permit authority (local government). The City of Perth provides a building certification service - refer to City of Perth website. Applications for Building Permit - Certified must be used for commercial buildings (2 – 9 classes), however applicants can choose to have classes 1, 10a 10b assessed as a certified application. The permit authority (normally the local government) will issue the permit within 10 business days. If an application is accepted as lodged and additional information is required, a 21 day letter will be sent to the applicant requesting that the information be provided within the 21 calendar days so the City can meet the statutory 10 day processing period. If the prescribed time elapses without a permit being issued or the application being rejected, the application is deemed refused, unless there is a written agreement with the City to continue processing.

Pre Permit Clearance

The City of Perth provides a free pre permit service to clear planning, health and technical items prior to lodgement for a building permit. A pre permit clearance application form is available on the City of Perth website.

Note: For applications where the City of Perth is engaged to provide the Certificate of Design Compliance this service is included in that process.

City of Perth Certification Service

An applicant may ask a local government to provide a certifying service. The City of Perth provides these building certification services under the current legislation.

The following services are offered:

- Initial consultation at design development stage on Building Code issues and advice on Permit requirements.
- In depth consultation with structural, mechanical, electrical, hydraulics and fire services engineers, energy efficiency and access consultants and fire & emergency services (DFES) at design stage.
- Discuss and agree Fire Engineering Design Briefs and Reports in liaison with DFES.
- Certificates of Design Compliance (CDC) for the issue of Building Permits.
- Periodic on-site inspections at critical stages of construction.
- Final inspections for Building Code Compliance and testing of all active life safety systems in liaison with fire & emergency services.
- Certificates of Construction Compliance (CCC) and Building Compliance (CBC) for the issue of Occupancy Permits Application Requirements (refer to City of Perth website for quotation for certification services).

Application Requirements

To help ensure that a detailed assessment is made in a timely manner, applicants should ensure that the application form and fees, all plans and supporting documentation are submitted at the time of lodging an application. If an application is incomplete then it is not valid and accordingly might not be processed until all the required information has been submitted.

The specific requirements for each application will vary with the nature of the proposal, and location.

The following will be required for all applications for certified applications:

Building Permit Checklist

A completed "Application for Building Permit – Certified BA1 checklist" to be signed and submitted by the applicant.
